PRIMARY GOALS

LATE PARIKSHIT KULKARNI EDUCATION SOCIETY has a clear directive of reaching out to the underprivileged rural and urban youth and inculcating in them a spirit of reaching heights with whatever resources they have. We aim to help rural youth have that escape velocity that causes them to escape the gravitational pull that holds them back and the propensity to believe that achieving heights is not our cup of tea but of the rich and the belief that all the comforts are meant for the elite, we are here to break this myth.

LATE PARIKSHIT KULKARNI EDUCATION SOCIETY is based on the non-negotiable principle that every person should have access to quality formal education as a matter of right. Apart from academics, we emphasize greatly the significance of vocational training and life skills, thus working towards providing employable industry training skills to the unemployed youth of society. Its focus groups include youth belonging to rural and urban Below Poverty Line (BPL) youth and women. The focus on mainstreaming i.e. education with employability is the root of our philosophy. The expertise of the Global Welfare Society lies in working with the marginalized community. Considerably that is also, one of the major sectors, where maximum intervention is needed. They are also the communities, which have time and again been excluded from the purview and scope of national programs that have otherwise claimed major impact.

HELP FOR MENTALLY RETARDED CHILDREN

Support for mentally retarded children involves a range of interventions aimed at enhancing their cognitive, social, and emotional development. This assistance includes special education programs tailored to individual needs, therapies such as speech and occupational therapy, and behavioral interventions to improve social skills. Additionally, a supportive environment at home and school, along with involvement of parents and caregivers, plays a crucial role in fostering the well-being and progress of mentally retarded children. Early identification and intervention are key to maximizing their potential and improving overall quality of life.

Mentally Retarded Child?

1.Accessible Education Services: In rural areas, ensuring access to special education services is paramount. This involves establishing or enhancing special education programs within local schools. Mobile educational units or periodic visits by specialists can help reach children in remote areas. Leveraging technology for remote learning and training local teachers in special education methodologies are also strategies to consider.

2.Community-Based Rehabilitation: Implementing community-based rehabilitation programs is crucial in rural settings. This involves training community health workers, local volunteers, and even family members to provide basic therapeutic interventions and support at home. This decentralized approach helps overcome transportation challenges and increases the frequency of interventions.

3.Mobile Clinics and Outreach Programs: Mobile healthcare clinics can bring medical professionals, including therapists and psychologists, to rural areas. Outreach programs can conduct regular health check-ups, and assessments, and provide counseling and guidance to parents. This ensures that children receive timely interventions without the burden of traveling long distances.
